A clear rectangular shape, a box with solids and voids is the basic volume of this small house. Three tamarisk trees, point of breath and shadow, is the plot's elevated boundary with the sea. Rocks, the blue of the water on the south and the rocky mountain on the north defines the free space. The pool, with a free form is defined by rocks of the area, like a continuation of the sea, as the waves fill in an alcove. The materials used, come from the local area, stone, metals painted on rust...
